1. Introduction

- 1.1 North London Collegiate School (the School) is an academically selective school. In addition to academic ability and potential the School looks for a range of qualities and skills which pupils might contribute to school life.
- 1.2 This policy sets out the education the School provides through the curriculum. The School's curriculum is all the planned activities the School organises to promote learning and the personal growth and development of pupils.
- 1.3 The curriculum is broad and balanced, and incorporates experience of linguistic, mathematical, scientific, technological, human and social, physical and aesthetic and creative education; and, while based largely upon the National Curriculum, seeks to extend pupils' learning and provide an appropriately challenging and rigorous educational programme.
- 1.4 The curriculum also includes the 'hidden curriculum' i.e. what pupils learn from assemblies, the School's attitudes and values, the way they are treated and the way they are expected to behave.
- 1.5 This policy should be read in conjunction with the following which are available on the School website:
 - Assessment, Tracking and Reporting Policy (internal document)
 - Behaviour Policy
 - Careers Policy (internal document)
 - Educational Visits Policy
 - English as an Additional Language Policy
 - Equal Opportunities Policy
 - EYFS Policy (internal document)
 - PSHE Aims and Purposes
 - Special Educational Needs and Disabilities Policy
 - Use of Racial Language in a Classroom Context Procedure (internal document)
 - Visiting Speakers Policy (internal document)
- 1.6 This policy applies to the whole school from Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) to Sixth Form.
- 1.7 This policy is available on the School website.
- 1.8 Copies of the above are held at the Senior School Office for consultation by parents. You may also email the School at Office@nlcs.org.uk to request hard copies which can be made available in large print or other accessible format if required.

2. Aims and objectives

- 2.1 The curriculum is underpinned by the aims of the School which are to provide an ambitious education for all its pupils and to enable each girl to make the most of her own gifts. Our highest priority is to maintain a team of professional teachers to whom each pupil is important, and who can introduce their subjects with enthusiasm and drive. We want all pupils to learn to recognise academic excellence and realise that it is attainable.
- 2.2 Alongside the aims of the classroom, the School strives to create a healthy environment where pupils can express themselves, grow their personalities and learn that education is much more than passing examinations.
- 2.3 The School fosters good relations between staff and pupils, between the pupils themselves and endeavours to maintain a community which is inclusive and teaches service to others.
- 2.4 The underlying objectives of the School curriculum are to:
- Provide an ambitious academic education
 - Ensure a broad, balanced and engaging curriculum
 - Nurture a love of learning and enthusiasm for further study
 - Encourage pupils to become increasingly active, confident and self-reliant learners
 - Give pupils opportunities to take on leadership and responsibility roles to stretch and challenge themselves
 - Equip each pupil with the knowledge, skills and confidence to flourish at university and beyond
- 2.5 Pupils are encouraged to take an active role in British society and the global community. Their education is underpinned by these objectives and seeks to provide a rich programme of curricular and extracurricular activities, and to provide the conditions in which knowledge, resilience and values can emerge.
- 2.6 The School recognises the importance of and seeks to promote an understanding of and commitment to fundamental British values such as democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, respect for and a celebration of the diversity of our community. The diversity in gender, gender reassignment, race, disability, sexual orientation, pregnancy or maternity, religion or belief or special educational needs is seen as an inherent strength.
- 2.7 The curriculum is the means by which the School achieves its objective of educating pupils in the knowledge, skills and understanding they need in order to lead fulfilling lives, including speaking, listening, literacy and numeracy skills. Through the curriculum offered, the School seeks to promote the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of our pupils, and to effectively prepare them for the opportunities, experiences and responsibilities of adult life and of life in British society; the School's approach is laid out in more detail in Appendix A.

2.8 The curriculum includes but is not limited to class-based lessons, as well as educational visits, workshops and visiting speakers. It is developed through the many extra-curricular activities and opportunities the School organises to enrich pupils' experience.

2.9 The curriculum enables us to deliver a liberal, diverse and intellectually challenging education which challenges stereotypes and empowers our pupils.

3. Statutory and regulatory framework

3.1 This policy complies with the Education \(Independent School Standards\) Regulations 2014.

4. Scope and responsibilities

4.1 The timetable and curriculum are annually reviewed as part of the School Development Plan and Evaluation process and through the work of the Junior School Leadership team and additional working groups as appropriate.

4.2 The development of the School curriculum is also informed by the monitoring of departmental, reviews which take place through a cycle of Curriculum Area Reviews (Senior School) or "health checks" (Junior School) for different subject areas, and by additional, regular lesson observations by members of the Senior Team and Junior School Leadership team.

5. Organisation and planning

5.1 The overall curriculum model for the Senior School is recorded in a 'curriculum map', which covers Years 7 to 13. It indicates the allocation to subjects and choice patterns at GCSE and beyond, as well as PSHE and activities programmes to enrich the pupils' educational experience. More detailed information regarding subject schemes of work and examination courses are available in departmental shared areas, Departmental Handbooks and GCSE or Sixth Form course guides respectively.

5.2 Departments identify specific resources required and incorporate requests for additional funding to update or introduce new topics into their departmental budget submissions annually.

5.3 The curriculum model in the Junior School is also recorded in curriculum maps, which covers Reception to Year 6. The curriculum is planned in three phases with long-term plans recorded in subject curriculum maps, indicating what topics are to be taught in each term, and to which year groups.

5.4 Medium-term plans are created or overseen by Junior School subject leaders in conjunction with the Junior School Deputy Head (Academic). The learning objectives for each area of study are set out. Possible activities, relating to the acquisition of the relevant knowledge and skills have been suggested, but teachers may vary these in order to make the most of opportunities to extend the curriculum. Teachers make their own short-term plans, which are based on the medium-term plans. These identify specific resources required and prior learning is taken into account.

- 5.5 At the Foundation Stage the EYFS curriculum is followed (see EYFS Policy). In the First School, the curriculum is planned so that there is progression of knowledge and skills in all curriculum areas. A cross-curricular topic approach is adopted when appropriate, whilst ensuring a broad coverage of the curriculum.
- 5.6 In the Lower School, subjects are timetabled separately, and each subject is planned to ensure specific knowledge and skills are learned. In addition, links between subjects are encouraged where relevant.

6. Access to the curriculum

- 6.1 All pupils, including those who have Special Educational Needs and/or Disabilities (SEND), have an equal opportunity to participate in the full curriculum of the School and any additional activities. The School will take all reasonably practicable measures and make the necessary Reasonable Adjustments to fulfil this obligation for pupils with SEND. Please refer to the School’s Special Educational Needs and Disabilities policy, English as an Additional Language policy and Equal Opportunities policy for further information.

7. Preclusion of Political Bias

- 7.1 The School precludes the promotion of partisan political views in the teaching of any subject in the School. Where political issues are brought to the attention of the pupils, they will offer a balanced presentation of opposing perspectives and this requirement should be reflected both in departmental planning and by individual teachers in the planning and delivery of their teaching.

- 9.1 The Head and Senior Team will regularly monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of this policy.
- 9.2 This policy will be subject to review at least annually by the Deputy Head (Academic) and Head of Junior School (or more frequently if changes to legislation, regulation or statutory guidance so require).
- 9.3 This policy will be subject to critical review by the relevant committee of the Governing Body every year.
- 9.4 The date of the next review is shown on the front page.

Appendix A: Spiritual, Moral, Social and Cultural development of pupils across the curriculum

The Spiritual, Moral, Social and Cultural development of pupils is valued and promoted across the Curriculum and in other ways in wider pupil provision in the Junior and Senior School.

Below are some examples of ways in which the spiritual, moral, social and cultural development of the pupils takes place within the curriculum. This list is by no means exhaustive.

- (a) Ways in which the fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect and inclusion of those with different faiths and beliefs are actively promoted

In order to achieve this we aim to preclude the promotion of partisan political views in teaching of any subject in the School.

Junior School

- Pupils are taught about a number of different faiths in RS in order to develop awareness of a wide variety of faiths and associated political structures. In addition Year 6 pupils learn about people who do not believe in a God.
- The older pupils are introduced to the concept of several different types of political regimes and current affairs in History and PSHE such as Nazi Germany, North Korea and Windrush.
- There is an 'open door' policy where lessons are observed by colleagues regularly, including 'Learning Walks' by the Junior Team.
- There is an expectation of parity of teaching across the layer, facilitated by a joint planning time between form/subject teachers.
- Schemes of work are reviewed by the subject leader and the Deputy Head Academic.
- Subject policies set out the ethos of the subject area and are reviewed by the Deputy Head Academic.
- All staff are forbidden to give any partisan or biased views whenever any political themes or issues are taught or discussed.
- A visiting speaker does not address pupils unless staff have assessed the suitability of the scope and contents of proposed presentations in advance of the talk. Checks are made on the visiting speaker to ensure there could be no element of radicalisation in their address.

In order to achieve this we aim to take such steps as are reasonably practical to ensure that where political issues are brought to the attention of pupils they are offered a balanced presentation of opposing views

- In the Junior School we do not hold separate assemblies for year groups - all pupils attend the same assembly (FS and LS separate assemblies).

The member of staff responsible for Canonaid ensures the chosen charity has appropriate values for the School community and shares these with the Head of Junior School.

Senior School

- The Politics Society organises mock referendums and elections throughout the year on a range of contemporary political topics, e.g., the London mayoral elections.
- Responsibility posts are allocated to pupils by a democratic process: posts are advertised; pupils apply for them; a transparent form of selection takes place through a series of interviews and / or writing of letters.
- All major faiths are represented with a Senior Society and pupils are always welcome to form their own Societies after consultation with the Assistant Head (Enrichment).
- Many of the Societies also represent a range of diverse groups, including LGBTQIA+, Afro-Caribbean, and FemSoc. Societies are welcome to run events at key points in the year (such as Black History Month or International Womens' Day)
- School rules include the prohibition of illegal drugs; talks from outside speakers include references to the consequences of breaking the law.
- RS, History and Politics lessons include these topics.
- Assemblies regularly demonstrate this ethos.
- Middle School PSHE Schemes of Work include sections on the law in relation to what young people are not allowed to do at certain ages.
- The right to hold your own beliefs and express opinions (while also taking account of the need to avoid giving offence) is upheld in discussions in lessons, student publications and performances and assemblies (e.g., a Sixth Form Layer Assembly on taking part in a Gay Pride March) PSHE Schemes of Work include sections on democracy, government and law.

(b) Ways in which principles are actively promoted which -

- (i) Enable pupils to develop their self-knowledge, self-esteem and self-confidence

- All pupils have a yearly report reading session with their tutors in which they are encouraged to evaluate their progress (e.g., by a self-appraisal form) and devise their own targets. The programme of Senior Societies allows for pupils to develop their self-knowledge, self-esteem and confidence by encouraging and facilitating pupil leadership and discussion.
- Colours and half colours are awarded termly to pupils in Years 10 and above for exceptional service to the School in several different areas (drama, music, community service etc.).
- As part of the termly Cups and Colours Assembly, students in the Middle School are also awarded with key prizes for academic or other achievements.
- Pupils regularly take Layer and whole School Assemblies, either as groups or individuals. This begins in Year 7 and continues throughout the School. Assembly on Friday each week is taken by a group of pupils.
- There is a strong programme of partnership days and symposia with other Schools both from the independent and maintained sectors. In the Middle School these are designed to build confidence and self-esteem. In the Upper School and Sixth Form academic symposia and partnership activities promote self-confidence and articulacy. In the Junior School partnership events are used for staff and pupil subject development.

- There is a thriving Debating Society which holds debates every week for both the Middle School and the Upper School/Sixth Form.
 - The PSHE Schemes of Work include sections on building self-esteem and self-confidence both in oneself and others and promote open discussion of ways in which confidence may be enhanced/undermined.
 - Year 7 induction activities and residential trip.
- (ii) Enable pupils to distinguish right from wrong and to respect the civil and criminal law

Junior School

- Behaviour Policy (published on School website) sets out clearly expectations of behaviour and sanctions for inappropriate behaviour.

- The Year 5 pupils have a PSHE unit of work on Parliament which includes Law Making.
- There is a focus on understanding of the challenges of disabilities, and the promotion of equal opportunities through assemblies and visits.
- Built into the PSHE programme are activities that cover fundamental British values of democracy, rule of law, inclusivity, mutual respect and individual liberty.

Senior School

- The Behaviour policy sets out clearly expectations of behaviour and sanctions for inappropriate behaviour.
- Codes of Conduct are discussed and drawn up by each Senior School class: the emphasis is on courtesy and consideration. School rules (e.g., on alcohol, smoking and illegal drugs) are included at the front of pupils' year planners.
- Senior Societies talks include topics such as healthy living and eating (given by a trained nutritionist) and ethical behaviour in business (given by a range of leading economists).
- Study skills courses and assemblies warn against plagiarism.
- PSHE Schemes of Work cover some of these topics.
- Ethics is taught at all key stages in RS and pupils learn how to make moral decisions and the factors which affect those decisions.

- There is an agreed system of rewards and sanctions.
- (iii) Encourage pupils to accept responsibility for their behaviour, show initiative and understand how they can contribute positively to the lives of those living and working in the locality in which the School is situated and to society more generally.

Junior School

Behaviour

- Pupils are expected to follow the Golden Rules which are on display in the classrooms. Pupils are rewarded for both individual and collective good behaviour and staff encourage pupils with a variety of techniques such as merit awards, marbles in the jar, star points. The systems are age appropriate and the School has made the decision they need not be identical in every year group. Other staff teaching the class are made aware of the reward system and make full use of it.
- If a pupil has not followed the Golden Rules they are encouraged to reflect upon their behaviour and think about the impact it has made on the other pupil.
- Much is made of the expectation that we have few rules and sanctions in the School as we expect everyone to behave in a kind and sensible manner. At the new Year 3 parents evening we encourage parents to adopt a sensible and supportive approach towards dealing with an occasion when School considers their child has not behaved properly emphasising the fact we speak to all the pupils involved and that we want the pupils to develop the understanding that all actions have consequences and that we make mistakes but the important thing is that we learn from them.
- Circle time is used to allow all the pupils to think about their behaviour and to discuss how to deal with issues in a sensible and empathetic way.
- In PSHE and through Circle Time discussion pupils learn the importance of being kind and respectful to each other. They also learn to distinguish between unkind and unpleasant behaviour and bullying and of the different types of bullying that can take place. Staff receive training in this area.

Charity

- Canonaid is collected weekly. The pupils have an assembly at the start of every term where a visiting speaker informs them about that term's charity. We regularly raise approximately £1,000 per term.
- Every December the Lower School holds a Christmas Fair to raise money for the Karenni Student Development Programme (KDSP) charity, now known as Advance Myanmar.
- Regular own clothes days are held, along with cake sales to help raise more funds for the Canonaid charity of the term.

Senior School

- To promote respect for others PSHE Schemes of Work include discussions about disability, sexual orientation, gender reassignment, sex, marriage/civil partnership, pregnancy (including teenage pregnancy), age and race relations.
 - Many of the protected characteristics are also discussed in RS (Ethics) lessons.
 - Assemblies (whether whole School or Layer) often address some of these issues.
 - Community service opportunities allow pupils to visit and interact with people who are either elderly and/or have disabilities (e.g., visits to Knights Court Care Homes, Livability, Woodlands School).
- (vii) Encourage respect for democracy and support for participation in the democratic process, including respect for the basis for which the law is made and applied in England

Junior School

- School Council and its role in promoting the above values: School councillors are elected by their forms. In each form, pupils wishing to stand write a letter explaining why they would make a good councillor and use this as the basis for a short presentation to their class.
- In addition to the form representatives, there is a School Council Executive made up of four Year 6 pupils.
- Suggestions for the Council to consider largely come from a suggestions box that any pupil can use. They may also come from the councillors or the Executive. Often, pupils will approach councillors to suggest something that they then bring up at the next meeting.
- Decisions on the Council are usually made by a majority vote, though occasionally the Executive will take forward an idea by itself. Councillors will often go back to their forms to canvass opinions on a particular idea, hold votes in class and then report back to the Executive in a subsequent Council meeting.
- Matters discussed by the Council vary widely as it receives suggestions on a myriad of issues. To provide a flavour of these, here are some of the issues that the Council has taken action on: ways to raise further money for charity; requests for extra break time equipment; suggested design of Wellbeing Garden; contributions to improvements to lunch menu; a request for free swimming time during long break.
- The PSHE curriculum in Year 5 has a unit on government and parliament.
- Responsibility posts are allocated to pupils by a democratic process: posts are advertised; pupils apply for them; a transparent form of selection takes place e.g., voting and/or interviews.
- RS lessons include these topics.
- Assemblies regularly demonstrate this ethos e.g., School council feedback.
- The right to hold different beliefs, live different lifestyles and express opinions (while also taking account of the need to avoid giving offence) is upheld in discussions in lessons, student publications and performances and assemblies.
- Year 6 Current Affairs lessons vary in content based on events in the media each week. Recent themes include: The difference between partial and impartial media outlets, how politics influence news media, the environment and climate change, British values, inclusivity and respect of opinions of others, the value of digital artwork, how technology can help people connect across the world and advancements in space exploration/whether humans should be looking to make colonies on other planets.

are made on the visiting speaker to ensure there could be no element of radicalisation in their address.

- Junior School Deputy Heads oversee the assembly schedules for all Junior School assemblies to ensure a mixture of topics, faiths, celebrations etc. are covered.
